almost immediate departure, under Chinese Communist protection, for an inspection of Mongol banners. It is possible that Patmarabtan and Ganjuurjap were the so-called "Japanese, former officials" mentioned. See | identification of Patmarabtan and Ganjuurjap in the reorganization of the IMPSPA. mentions Patmarabtan as one of the two vice-chairmen of the Chinese Communist Northeast United Military Executive Committee. If Patmarabtan has been selected for a "United Military Committee", it is possible that he is commander of the Chinese Communist-sponsored Inner Mongolial army. An anti-Communist, Japanese-educated Mongol youth who has good connections in both Nationalist and Communist-controlled areas of Inner Mongolia reports that Germander-in-Chief of IMPSPA, has become head of
